

M. Chadid¹ and G. A. Wade²

¹ Observatoire de la Cote d'Azur, BP 4229, 06304 Nice Cedex 04, France

² Department of Physics, Royal Military College of Canada, PO Box 17000, Station "Forces", Kingston, Ontario, Canada

We report recent observational results from high resolution stokes V spectropolarimetry and ultra-high precision longitudinal magnetic field measurements of Classical Cepheid and RR Lyrae stars over a period of almost 4 years. Some new results on the Blazhko effect and the shock/magnetic interaction are discussed here.
